

DP Alpine Biology and Global Change: Call for application for financial support of student participation in international scientific events in 2019

The DP Alpine Biology and Global Change offers its PhD students the possibility of obtaining financial support for their participation in international scientific events, including conferences and summer schools. The financial support can amount up to 400 € per PhD student and will be granted upon fulfillment of the criteria stated below, which aim to increase the coherence of the DP Alpine Biology and Global Change.

Applications should be sent to ecology@uibk.ac.at and need to include

- 1) a short letter explaining what the support will be used for and in what way it will increase the coherence of the DP (incl. a reference to the corresponding FLD entry - see below),
- 2) all relevant invoices and proofs of payment and
- 3) the bank information of the applicant (incl. IBAN/BIC).

The call opens on 11th June and closes on 12th July 2019.

Criteria for financial support of students enrolled in the DP Alpine Biology and Global Change

- The participation in the scientific event yields an entry into the FLD database of the University of Innsbruck. Oral presentations can be funded by up to 250 €. Poster presentations at international conferences can be supported by up to 150 €. Measures increasing the coherence of the Doctoral Program will be awarded by an additional support of 150 € (i.e. in total up to 400 €). In such cases at least two senior researchers from different research groups involved in the Doctoral Program need to co-author the presentation.
- The participation in summer schools can be supported by up to 200 €. If the student has previously co-authored at least one entry in the FLD database, which included two researchers from different research groups involved in the Doctoral Program, an additional support of 100 € (i.e. in total up to 300 €) is possible.

Applications for support can include all scientific events in the respective year.

The decision on awarding a financial support will be taken by the Executive Board of the DP Alpine Biology and Global Change. There is no legal right for obtaining any such financial support.
