(I S M E O – The International Association for Mediterranean and Oriental Studies, Rom)

The Archaeological Mission to South Caucasus (AMSC), initiated in 2013, carries out extensive research and excavations in the region. The presentation showcases the results of key archaeological investigations undertaken in recent years by the mission in Armenia and southern Georgia. The mission's activities are primarily focused on the Iron Age, offering significant insights into the cultural and historical development of the South Caucasus during this pivotal period.
