

Cinema Corner

Coffee Room

(Dpt. American Studies Innsbruck, Innrain 52, GeiWi tower 3rd floor, room 40332)

The American Corner Innsbruck presents weekly showings of major films from all periods of cinema history. Each showing will feature an introduction by one of our film scholars at the Department of American Studies.

For legal reasons specified in our licensing contract we are not allowed to display on this homepage the real titles of the films we are showing. But can you guess them?

Wed, April 30, 2014, 5 pm

In this adaptation of David Mamet's play, the f-word and its derivatives are uttered 138 times. It shows the workings of a real estate office and the tremendous pressure of its agents. The film's all-star cast includes Al Pacino, Jack Lemmon, and Kevin Spacey.

ABC – Always Be Closing (1992)

Wed, May 07, 2014, 5 pm

This adaptation of Tennessee Williams's classic play features the onscreen spouses Elisabeth Taylor and Paul Newman battling it out. This is the story of life lies, regrets, alcohol, and "no-neck monsters."

Feline on a High Temperature House Top (1958)

Wed, May 14, 2014, 5 pm

In the second installment of Christopher Nolan's Batman trilogy we see the battle between the vigilante and the anarchist. The late Heath Ledger is brilliant as The Joker, one of Batman's most intriguing foes.

Knight in Not So Shining Armor (2008)