2018 International Summer School on

Roman Pottery in the Adriatic: production, typology and distribution

Admission

A total of 20 students will be admitted to the Summer School, including at least 10 students from the University of Verona and from the University of Innsbruck. The selection will be made on the basis of the academic degrees and curriculum studiorum of the students. The deadline for the submission of the application form is fixed at the 30th September 2018. The International Summer School on Roman Pottery in the Adriatic gives priority to Master's and PhD students or to students graduating with final thesis on Roman pottery.

Application fee (100 €)

The application fee gives free access to the teaching sessions and practical exercises held at the National Archaeological Museum of Aquileia, to the coffee breaks, the excursion to the Basilica at Aquileia and to the Early Christian Museum of Aquileia. Each participant will receive a course pack including books and bibliography about the sessions and practical workshops of the Summer School. Students of the University of Verona are exempt from the application fee.

Application form

Applicants should send via E-mail their curricula vitae to the following address: summerschoolaquileia@gmail.com. After acceptance of the application (5th October 2018), the applicant must pay the fee through bank transfer in favour of:
Dipartimento di Culture e Civiltà dell'Università di Verona
BANK: Banca Popolare di Verona, Piazza Nogara, 37129 Verona, Italy
BIC SWIFT CODE: BAPPIT21001
IBAN: IT461050341175000000011060

with the mention Summer School Aquileia. The final payment submission has to be made no later than 15th October 2018.

Transport/accommodation

Transport to Aquileia and accommodation are not covered by the application fee. A number of hotels will offer a discount for the Summer School participants. Furthermore, there are many accommodation options in Aquileia that can be easily found and booked on-line through the well known booking sites.

Presentation

The International Summer School on Roman Pottery in the Adriatic is a high-level scientific course that aims to provide every student, of any age or geographical origin, with a theoretical framework and practical training on the most advanced methodologies of Roman pottery studies (2nd cent. BC - 7th century AD). Participation is open to students from Italy and abroad at Bachelor and Master level, as well as post-graduates and PhD students. The teaching sessions and the numeral practical workshops, held at the National Archaeological Museum of Aquileia will be undertaken by several leading European experts coming from Italy, Spain, Austria, Germany, Slovenia and Croatia. The international Summer School on Roman Pottery in the Adriatic represents an excellent opportunity to acquire a solid knowledge of Roman pottery, but also to share field experiences and to join the international research network on craft production and the economy of the Roman world.

Summer School venue

The Summer School will be hosted in the congress hall of the National Archaeological Museum of Aquileia, located in the city centre.
