Prof. Richard Bardgett

(University of Manchester)

LFUI Guest Professor at the Department of Ecology

“The hidden majority:
why soil biodiversity matters”

March 09, 2020 17:00

Hörsaal A, Sternwartestr. 15, Innsbruck

Professor Bardgett's research focuses on understanding the role of interactions between plant and soil communities in regulating the structure and function of terrestrial ecosystems, and their response to global change.

He is the author of “Aboveground-Belowground Interactions” (2010) and “Earth Matters: How Soil Underpins Civilization” (2016), both published by Oxford University Press.
