

404900, VU Experimental Economics:
Innsbruck Winter School on Credence Goods, Incentives and Behavior

Univ.Prof. Dr. Loukas Balafoutas

Univ.Prof. Dr. Rudolf Kerschbamer

Program and schedule of lectures

Monday, March 22

08:00 – 10:00: Lecture 1

Rudolf Kerschbamer: Theory and Lab Evidence on Credence Goods and Fraud (1)

14:00 – 16:00: Lecture 2

Rudolf Kerschbamer: Theory and Lab Evidence on Credence Goods and Fraud (2)

Tuesday, March 23

11:30 – 13:00: Lecture 3

Michael Kirchler: Lab and Field Experiments in Finance

15:00 – 16:30: Lecture 4

Loukas Balafoutas: Field Evidence on Credence Goods and Fraud (1)

Wednesday, March 24

11:00 – 12:30: Lecture 5

Loukas Balafoutas: Field Evidence on Credence Goods and Fraud (2)

Lecture 6

Brit Grosskopf: Discrimination and Credence Goods

Thursday, March 25

09:00 – 12:00: Participation in the Innsbruck Winter Summit – (Un)Ethical Behavior in Markets

Friday, March 26

09:00 – 12:00: Participation in the Innsbruck Winter Summit – (Un)Ethical Behavior in Markets

Course evaluation

Passing this course requires full participation during all lectures. Grading will be based on an individual research proposal for a theoretical or experimental study on credence goods. Proposals should be between 5 and 7 pages long (1.5 lines spacing; 12 pt. font size) and should include the following: description and motivation for the topic under examination; research question(s); theoretical framework or experimental methods (or both) used to answer the research question(s); list of references (does not count for the page limit). Proposals should be sent by email to both lecturers (loukas.balafoutas@uibk.ac.at; rudolf.kerschbamer@uibk.ac.at) no later than April 7, 2021.

Reading material

All relevant material, including references, will be discussed during class and included in the lecture slides.

Location

All lectures will be held online.