

YouthCAN

DRESDEN, GERMANY
16-17 NOVEMBER 2017

Young people are a driving force challenging extremism and hate, but too often they don't have the tools or opportunity to make their voices heard. YouthCAN wants to change that!

FIGHTING BACK AGAINST HATE

Join YouthCAN for a training session in Dresden, Germany on 16-17 November and become part of the global movement to build more resilient communities and challenge hate speech and extremism. It is up to all of us to make our communities a safe, open and accepting place where people from every background can coexist. This free two-day event will help you become part of the solution and equip you with the skills to raise your voice against hate and extremism online.

This hands-on workshop is driven by you; it is a chance to bring your ideas to life. You will work closely with other activists from across the region, learn from international experts and hear from social media companies to create innovative new content and expand your reach online. You have the power to stand up to hate and extremism; get heard!

YOUTHCAN

The Youth Civil Activism Network is an international network of youth activists with over 1,200 members from 125 countries. YouthCAN is dedicated to empowering young activists and getting youth voices heard!

facebook.com/YouthCivilActivism/

This event is free! Travel and accommodation will be provided for those coming from outside Dresden.

HOW TO APPLY

This event is open to young people aged 18-29 in Germany, Austria and Switzerland.

Click the link to fill out the online application. by 6/11/17.

For more information, email us at youthCANevents@strategicdialogue.org.