Curriculum for the Bachelor's Programme in Catholic Religious Education at the Faculty of Catholic Theology, University of Innsbruck

§ 1 Profile and programme objectives

- (1) The Bachelor's Programme in Catholic Religious Education offers basic education in theology and with special emphasis on adult education, counselling, pastoral care and religious education at compulsory schools. In addition to subject- and content-related skills, graduates are able to deal with faith and religion in public in a scientifically responsible way. The study programme promotes a theological and multi-perspective view of education and pastoral care, didactics, and guidance and it enhances the communicative and interdisciplinary competencies of its graduates. Thus it prepares for professions within the church, but also in society at large, which demand comprehensive theological academic training in context with religious education or pastoral care. The theological and educational training, in combination with other study programmes (at universities, universities of applied sciences or pedagogical universities) and trainings (e.g. in the fields of youth, consulting or pastoral care), expands the graduates' horizons with regard to issues of ideology and orientation.
- (2) Graduates acquire in particular following qualifications:
 - They are able to perceive and independently attend to questions of theology with respect to religious education.
 - They are able to explain questions of religion and systems of religious ideas that are relevant for society in the venues of secondary adolescent and adult education.
 - They are able to understand societal and cultural reality on theological hermeneutics.
 - They are able to integrate their theological knowledge into their own personality.
- (3) The Bachelor's Programme in Catholic Religious Education can be completed with two alternate specialisations:
 - with a specialisation on compulsory education by choosing the modules "Compulsory Schools" I and II;
 - with a specialisation on extracurricular education by choosing the modules "Communicative Formation, Counselling and Pastoral Care" I and II.

- (4) The Bachelor's Programme in Catholic Religious Education prepares in particular for the following professions:
- teaching religion in compulsory schools within the context of a pastoral profession (on the premise of a missio canonica) if the modules “Compulsory Schools” I and II are chosen;
 - in extracurricular education, counselling and pastoral care, in the field of psychological-social services and similar professions, if the modules “Communicative Formation, Counselling and Pastoral Care” I and II are chosen.
- (5) By choosing the modules “Compulsory Schools” I and II and “Communicative Formation, Counselling and Pastoral Care” I and II (which exceeds the maximum ECTS-Credits of the bachelor's programme), students can acquire qualifications for both religious education and for extracurricular education, counselling, and pastoral care.
