

Benjamin Kremmel – Short CV

Current Position	Junior Researcher Department for Didactics, Foreign Language Teaching Unit School of Education, University of Innsbruck
Education &amp; Professional Career	2014-            Junior Researcher, Department for Didactics, Foreign Language Teaching Unit, School of Education, University of Innsbruck
	2013-            PhD „Applied Linguistics“, University of Nottingham, UK
	2011-2013      External lecturer, Department for Didactics, Foreign Language Teaching Unit, School of Education, University of Innsbruck
	2011-2013      Test developer and researcher, SRP Project (Standardisierte Reifeprüfung), University of Innsbruck
	2011-2012      MA „Language Testing“ (by distance), Lancaster University, UK, awarded with distinction
	2011-2012      English coach, SPOT-experience school programs, Austrian Alpine Association
	2008-2010      Teaching assistant, Department for Didactics, Foreign Language Teaching Unit, University of Innsbruck
	2005-2010      Teaching Degree English/Psychology/Philosophy, University of Innsbruck
Awards &amp; Distinctions	Commendation by the Jury of the LFUI Best Student Paper Award 2014, University of Innsbruck
	Doctoral scholarship, University of Innsbruck
	Caroline Clapham IELTS Masters Award 2013
	Innovation in Assessment in Award 2013, British Council, jointly with Carol Spöttl, Kathrin Eberharter, Doris Frötscher and the SRP Team of the University of Innsbruck
Memberships	EALTA (European Association for Language Testing and Assessment)
	IATEFL (International Association of Teachers of English as a Foreign Language), Special Interest Group: Testing, Assessment and Evaluation
	Language Testing Research Group, University of Innsbruck
	CRAL (Centre for Research in Applied Linguistics), University of Nottingham, UK
	BRG (Bilingualism Research Group), University of Nottingham, UK
	Vocabulary Research Group, University of Nottingham, UK
	Language Testing Research Group, Lancaster University, UK