

Current project status

The project is now in full progress for more than one year and many important milestones have been reached in the last few months. The most of the completed steps are of great importance for the further course of the project.

The first beta version of the analysis tool was successfully applied to the 120 selected measures.

The feedback and results of this application to the 120 measures were reflected and documented jointly with all partner countries. In October, 20 best-practice examples were identified which attracted particularly positive attention. Five measures were selected for each partner country.

The relevant projects were already contacted in November and requested for personal or telephone interviews. The first project managers have already contacted us and were invited for an interview. In this interview, more detailed information on the projects, but also comments and suggestions on the beta version of the analysis tool were received. The notes and results of the interviews are recorded in writing in the respective countries and discussed later with the project partners and associated partners. In addition, the quality indicators and the beta version were critically reflected together with the project partners, the associated partners and the project managers of the best-practice measures. The results of the reflection discussions were translated into English by all project partners and finally documented and recorded by the German project partner. At the same time, the preparation of a Supranational Handbook in English has already begun. In this handbook people from practice are informed about the project and get an overview of all indicators.

Outlook

The third and last transnational project meeting will take place in Cologne in February 2019. During this meeting, all project partners will again be able to exchange information on current issues in the course of the project. A major topic in February will be the provision and publication of best practice examples on the project homepage.
