Summer School Remote Ethnography

Connecting introductions to Open Source Research, remote sensing, interviewing, oral history, source criticism and decolonial theory.

This summer school is intended to provide students and junior researchers with a basic toolkit in remote ethnography. It aims to enable a type of research in places of limited accessibility that can provide many of the same holistic, in-depth and detailed insights that classical ethnography does.

This summer school is divided into two parts. The first part will take place online as a preparatory meeting on Friday 14 July 2023. The second will be held at Palacký University Olomouc between 31 July – 4 August 2023.

Interested? To sign up, please contact Martin Lavicka (martin.lavicka@upol.cz) by the end of May.
