Project team at the joint dinner during the 2nd Transnational Meeting in Bergamo

From 14th – 16th of November 2022 the second transnational meeting of the project partners took place in Bergamo.

During the meeting, all project results were discussed in detail. An intensive exchange was enriched by very instructive contributions from the individual partner universities. For example, the project partners from Valencia reported on their experiences in creating the video animations. In addition, the University of Bergamo gave a valuable review of the creation of the European handbook in the predecessor project GoodVET and the University of Innsbruck described its findings so far in the area of project dissemination. With regard to the RecoVET manual, important structural agreements were made for further work. In addition, an important focus was placed on the user-friendliness of the manual, for example through the use of vocabulary appropriate to the target group. The focus on user-friendliness was also sharpened for the development of the online tool and the toolbox. In addition the partner exchanged views on the possible further dissemination of the project results.

In conclusion, there was constructive feedback from the Critical Friends. They also pointed out the importance of the user-friendliness of the project results and the essential dialogue with the target group.

Finally, deadlines and work packages were agreed upon. Retrospectively, the meeting marked another milestone in the project and served as a valuable sharing platform for all partners.
