Extranomical Tours is offering a trainee/internship position in the field of Marketing & Sales. We are a San Francisco tour operator looking for someone that wants to become an active member of our Marketing & Sales team and also provides administrative support to the office if needed. Our Marketing & Sales Department promotes our business and keeps close relations with current sales agents. It also focuses on constantly creating new business contacts and finding ways to market our company and tour products as well as to improve these.

This trainee/internship provides a good mix of in-office and on the job training. Candidates will be expected to work 40 hours per week. We encourage international applicants who are qualified for J1 internships. Candidates must display a high level of personal responsibility and must be able to work both in a team environment and independently. The successful trainee/internship candidate will think "outside the box" and be a creative problem solver. Fluency in English is required. Candidates with foreign language fluency are highly regarded.
