Elizabeth Fricker

(Oxford)

The prices and perils of trusting others

Mi., 14. 12. 2016, 18.00 Uhr s.t.
Seminarraum VI (Karl-Rahner-Platz 3)

Professor Elizabeth Fricker is a fellow and tutor at Magdalen College, Oxford, and lectures in the Faculty of Philosophy, Oxford. Her research interests are in philosophy of language, philosophy of mind and theory of knowledge. She is an early pioneer in the epistemology of testimony, arguing for a 'local reductionist' account. More recently she has focused on the nature of the speech act of telling, and the social norms governing it.
