

Irene Renau (Pontificia Universidad Católica de Valparaíso)

Irene Renau is a professor of Lexical Semantics and Corpus Linguistics at Pontificia Universidad Católica de Valparaíso. Her research focus on the study of semantics of words using different types of corpus approaches. Her current research project (Fonedcyt nr. 1231594, 2023-2026) deals with metaphors in Spanish verbs and nouns, and methods to automatically detect and classify them. She is also a lexicographer currently working in different projects at the Chilean Academy of Language and the Association of Spanish Academies. Together with Sergi Torner and Paz Battaner, she edited The Routledge Handbook of Spanish Lexicography (2024). She is a member of the Tecling research group (<http://www.tecling.com/>).