

Heidegger and völkisch Thinking: The Failure of Denazification

Lecture by Adam Knowles

- When? December 6, 2022, 12.00–13.30 p.m.
- Where? SR 40718, GEIWI-Turm, Innrain, Innsbruck
- Organized by:

Univ.-Prof. Dr. Andreas Oberprantacher, MA

Univ.-Prof. Mag. Dr. Dirk Rupnow

Adam Knowles is an Oberassistent in the Department of Philosophy at the University of Zurich. His book Heidegger's Fascist Affinities: A Politics of Silence was published by Stanford University Press in 2019. His research has been supported by the Volkswagen-Stiftung/Andrew W. Mellon Foundation, U.S. Holocaust Memorial Museum, Holocaust Educational Foundation, European Holocaust Research Infrastructure and German Historical Institute. He is currently translating Heidegger's Black Notebooks 1942-8 for Indiana University Press and is preparing a book manuscript entitled Categories of Complicity: Philosophy under National Socialism. He holds a PhD from the New School for Social Research, as well as Magister Artium from Ruprecht-Karls-Universität Heidelberg and BA from the University of Texas at Austin.